Meridian Museum of Art

After School Art Classes

To meet the growing demand for quality after school art instruction in our area, the Meridian Museum of Art is announcing the schedule for its after school program. All of our classes will offer progressive, skill-based art lessons in a studio setting. Students will receive instruction one day a week at the museum from a highly qualified art instructor.

Classes will be offered for three age groups and are limited to ten students per class, with a minimum of six students! These unique twelve-week sessions will be offered in the fall and again in the spring, building skill levels in drawing, painting, and multi-media.

The registration fee per year is $10 and each twelve week session costs only $150, for a total of $160.00, which includes all expenses for art materials used in class.
